

A top-down view of a wooden cutting board. On the left side, there is a circular hole at the top, a half-sliced lemon, and a small white ceramic dish filled with white salt. The cutting board itself is made of various types of wood, with some sections showing a distinct grain pattern. The word 'REKAI' is printed in large, white, sans-serif capital letters across the top. The word 'Dapoerea' is printed in a smaller, dark, serif font on the right side of the board, appearing three times in different locations.
